People often remain poor because they set worthy goals but move in the opposite direction, forgetting their initial goals. Experts argue that if what one is doing does not bring them closer to their dream, then they should not do it. Moreover, one's occupation must lead to wealth, or else poverty becomes their destiny. There are only two ways to earn money - through physical or mental labor. Some people start earning more money and decide to spend it on expensive things to feel like a rich person and this is feeling truly important. Finally, experts believe that the world has an incredible amount of wealth, but people do not appreciate it.
